

Hi Joe

Please see below,

Behaviour

I have been very impressed with the behaviour of the children. Even though they are usually keen to begin the sports sessions, they will line up and remain quiet for the register at the start of the sessions. The children arrive prepared and on time. They are very good at listening carefully to instructions and the rules of play and they will work together to help each other with understanding the game and achieving targets.

Attitude & respect

The children are very attentive when listening to the rules of play and ask lots of really good questions. They have shown care and empathy towards each other, especially if another child is upset. They respect and look after the equipment used in the sessions.

Where there have been disagreements during the sessions, the children involved have apologised and accepted the apology from others.

Enthusiasm

It is a pleasure to coach the children as they always try their best and engage fully in the sessions. I set achievable targets, and the children enjoy celebrating not only their own, but everyone's successes.

It's great to see them excited for the next challenge!

Kind regards

Phil
